The Most Unwanted List

Environmental rust Solutions, Inc.

Environmental Trust Solutions is a Maryland-based hazardous materials abatement company. The company has been placed on the Most Unwanted List because it threatens workers' living standards in metropolitan Washington, D.C. and puts communities at risk.

- The company performs a variety of hazardous materials abatement – including asbestos, mold and lead all of which if improperly removed pose serious health hazards to surrounding communities. Some of the company's projects are in heavily-trafficked areas, such as museums, schools, retailers and hospitals.
- A former Environmental Trust Solutions worker reported that the company placed him on a job to remove asbestos where he was not licensed to do asbestos removal work. The company told the worker not to wear the necessary safety equipment to avoid scrutiny of his lack of a license.
- The company has put workers and surrounding communities at risk by placing employees on hazardous materials abatement jobs without the proper training and safety certifications required by law.
- The company has committed wage theft against its workers, sometimes leaving other contractors to pay them in order to maintain progress on jobs.
- According to the Mid-Atlantic Regional Organizing Committee, "This company cannot be trusted. It is a threat to working men and women and the communities in which they work and live. They are unwanted in our region."
